Hancock I-10 traffic rerouted after blast

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
All Hancock County law enforcement agencies were directed to assist in rerouting westbound traffic on I-10 at Hwy. 603 for about one hour Wednesday afternoon after a Gulfport chemical plant explosion caused toxic gases to move across the interstate highway north of the city.

The explosion reportedly occurred at Plastiflex, Inc. in the Harrison County Industrial Seaway at about 1:45 p.m.

The Hancock County Sheriff's Department, and Bay St. Louis and Waveland Police Departments were directed by the State Highway Patrol to re-route the westbound traffic along US-90 at about 2:30 p.m. when nitric and sulfuric acids combined to form gas which began escaping from the plant and was driven by southeast winds across the interstate near Gulfport.

A tractor-trailer rig jackknifed on US-90 in Bay St. Louis to further snarl the heavy highway traffic, but no injuries were reported in the mishap.

Local radio reports said an acrid smoke which burned eyes, throat and lungs was emanating from the plant.

At press time, people were reported dead and 15 injured as a result of the blast. No damage estimates were available.

A black cloud from the explosion could be seen by residents in east Hancock and Bay St. Louis.

The highway department reported the black cloud did not contain much of the toxic gases.

The North and South Belaire Communities and Northwood Hills Subdivision, all north of Gulfport, were evacuated to Harrison Central High School just after the blast.

Mobile Medic personnel and firefighters traveling to the blast scene were advised to don gas masks before entering the area immediately around the plant.

Hancock law enforcement officials were directed to re-open I-10 at about 3:30 p.m. after fire fighters apparently closed a pipe valve which was leaking the gas.

Bourg, Anderson vie for Beat 3 justice seat

By BRENT MACEY
With two precincts left to be counted Tuesday night in the Hancock County Courthouse, only 10 votes separated the leading three Justice Court Judge candidates for two slots in an upcoming runoff election in Beat 3 June 15.

Hilda Bourg led with 141 votes followed by Meredith Anderson with 134 and Clifton Saucier with 131.

An announcement of 145 votes from the Crane Creek for Anderson assured the Necaise Crossing resident of a slot in the runoff.

Bourg gathered only two votes from the precinct while Saucier picked up 18. Silence swept the courtroom when the final North Bay Precinct votes were announced less than a minute after the Crane Creek tallies.

Bourg picked up 83 votes from that precinct and gained 25 votes on Anderson who managed only 58 at North Bay.

Saucier's hopes for a runoff election died when Election Commissioner John V. Ladner read the results of the ballot count from North Bay which showed he totaled only 17 votes in that precinct.

Unofficial totals from the five precincts in Beat 3 show Anderson the winner with 337 votes. Bourg followed with 226 votes and Saucier finished third with 162.

Handshakes and smiles greeted the two women who will now face each other again in the June election.

Other candidates slowly filed out of the courthouse receiving consolation from friends.

A happy Anderson, who was running for a position her husband was forced to vacate several months ago, stated "I thank all the Beat 3 voters and my opponents for running a clean race."

She added, "I'm here because what happened to my husband."

Her husband Lloyd Anderson, who was at his wife's side for the election returns Tuesday, was forced to vacate the position of Beat 3 Justice Court Judge following a decision by the State Supreme Court.

The court agreed with a recommendation by the Commission on Judicial Performance that Anderson was guilty of "willful misconduct" in office for allegedly embezzling $214 in fines and not accurately reporting on money received.

"I want to ask for the Beat 3 voters support and ask them all to turn out on the 15th," Anderson said.

A smiling Bourg stated, "I'm thrilled. I want to thank all the people who came out to vote."

She stated she was pleased that the race was clean.

"We (eight of the candidates) were all at North Bay earlier today and we were all happy people. That shows it was a good race."

Unofficial results show W.J. Cameron with 150, Edward L. Disciscio with 34, James C. Ladner with 125, Roger J. Ladner with 126, David Michael Necaise with 92, Luis O. Necaise with 33, McCoy Peterson with 61 and Clifton Saucier with 162.

Of the district's 3,581 registered voters, 1,346 (37.5 percent) participated in Tuesday's Beat 3 Special Election.

Citizens support proposed facility

Waveland proceeding with shelter

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Waveland is proceeding with plans for an animal shelter which probably will be utilized by Hancock County and Bay St. Louis.

The City Board of Aldermen Tuesday night authorized Dr. Herbert LeBourgeois, a local veterinarian, to proceed with preliminary plans and specifications for the shelter which will be located next to Fire Station No. Two on Gulfside Drive.

The board's action followed a public hearing earlier that evening at the City Community Center where several of some 25 people attending voiced their support of the facility.

A letter of thanks and general information about the hearing directed to Bay St. Louis and county officials was also authorized by the board at Mayor John Longo's request.

Sheriff Ronald A. Peterson of Hancock, who has repeatedly urged county officials to construct a shelter due to growing animal control problems countywide, attended the hearing.

In emphasizing the need for an animal shelter, LeBourgeois at the hearing stated, "As population increases, yards get smaller and traffic increases which presents more problems."

"You have people who won't confine their dogs which results in poisonings and shootings of these animals," he said.

"This is happening now and it has been happening because the city can't handle the situation. Also the existing city animal control ordinance I've read is circa 1920," he reported in an appeal for a modern animal control ordinance.

"It's not so much an animal control ordinance, but a people control ordinance," the veterinarian stated regarding animal control laws.

"We have to have an animal control ordinance, but before that we have to have a good animal shelter," he stated.

"The best thing that can happen is if Waveland gets this shelter," he said.

LeBourgeois explained a shelter located in an isolated county location would result in high transportation costs for city dog catchers who would be forced to bring strays several miles to such a confinement area.

"The city that gets this facility will have an advantage," he added.

The veterinarian cited two primary reasons for the facility.

"We (the cities and county) have no place except my hospital to confine and observe a dog suspected of having rabies," he reported and noted the county or cities must pay a fee for housing these animals at his animal hospital.

"Even in the cities dogs in the Spring and Fall are in heat and are running around in packs," he said.

"There is also a need because people who love their pets sometimes will leave a gate open and forget to put a tag or collar on their animals," LeBourgeois said.

He explained that strays are now brought to a shelter in Gulfport where due to overcrowding may not be kept for the usual five days.

Regarding the planned Waveland shelter, LeBourgeois said all captured strays would be enclosed inside a concrete block building which would not emanate any noise or smell and be escape-proof.

He reported the former Bay Waveland pound on Third Street in Bay St. Louis presented neighborhood problems because it was an outdoor facility where fencing deteriorated and dogs escaped.

The veterinarian said the floor of the proposed shelter would be sloped to allow easy cleaning and drainage of wash water and animal wastes.

"Three times per day with a hose is adequate for cleaning this facility," he noted.

In response to a question by a woman asking if the facility would be manned around the clock, Longo reported the shelter would be monitored by a maintenance man, Bay and Waveland dog wardens, and fire fighters on duty near the 24-hour-a-day.

LeBourgeois added the proposed shelter would confine animals in individual cages which would prevent injury by other strays housed at the facility.

Apartments planned in Waveland

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
A 36-unit, five-building apartment complex is being planned for Waveland.

The Waveland Board of Aldermen Tuesday night reviewed plans for the complex which will be located on a triangular parcel on Old Gainesville Road near the Idlewood subdivision.

Barbara Rappold, city clerk and an alderman, said R-3 zoning in that area of the city allows construction of apartment units.

She reported the property is owned by a Martin Morrisale.

Virden, Fields and Alexander Architects of Jackson designed the complex.

John Fields of the firm Wednesday said plans and specifications are about 35 percent complete for the project which will be financed by the Farmers Home Administration.

But the architect refused to reveal the total cost of the project, construction schedules or names of the developers involved in the project.

"The developers tell us it's too early to let out any information about this program," he stated.

TOUGH BOX TO CRACK—Workers counting ballots at the Hancock County Courthouse Tuesday evening found a ballot box from the Standard Community a tough one to open. The box had accidentally been locked inside and the padlock had to be sawed. Working to open the box is Election Commissioner J.V. Ladner, left, and Herbie Naylor at the hacksaw. WHEAT STRAW

If you are planning on doublecropping soybeans behind wheat, one decision you have to make is how to handle the wheat straw. The straw and stubble are both a blessing and a curse all at once.

Leaving the straw in place and planting soybeans directly into it gives the greatest protection from soil erosion and conserves moisture. The straw acts as a mulch which also slows emergence and growth of weeds.

On the other hand, the straw presents a problem in planting and in getting good stands. It limits use of herbicides and cultivation for weed control, and it may be a good hiding place for diseases. Wheat straw tends to slow early growth of soybeans, with lower yields a good possibility.

There are several approaches to handling wheat straw. It can be removed by burning, incorporated into the seedbed or you can plant straight into the stubble. Each method has its good and bad points, and no single one can be said to be the best in all given situations.

Burning has given the best yields in research tests. But there are hazards from smoke and danger to surrounding property. Stubble planting gives maximum soil conservation, but often reduces yields through weaker stands. Incorporating takes more fuel, time and usually dries the soil.

Deciding on the right method or combination is usually an individual farmer's decision. For more information on the options available, contact the county Extension office.

Money Talk

Have you noticed that when you stop by the grocery store to "just pick up fresh milk" the bill comes to $4 or $5?

We all know that the extra two to three dollars is spent on impulse foods, mainly snacks. Let me tell you about a scientific breakthrough that can allow you to shop only once a week and save you from impulse buying.

Ultra High Temperature Milk (UHT) will soon be on the grocery shelf. This milk can be stored without refrigeration up to 6 months. It will be a convenience as well as a savings since you can buy the new product less frequently than regular milk. UHT milk is expected to be competitively priced.

UHT milk is made from Grade A raw milk, has the same standards for composition, and is processed in a Grade A plant. UHT milk is flash pasteurized at about 280 degrees for a few seconds, twice the temperature used in the normal process. This temperature kills any microorganisms and bacteria; it is commercially sterile.

In a sterilized room, the milk is then quickly cooled to room temperature and stored in a sterile container. The sealed container is then placed in a cool storage area.

spillage bacteria are destroyed, UHT milk can be stored without refrigeration. There appears to be no negative effect on the nutritive value of the milk.

ELLIAH & MALCOLM

The saga surrounding the split of two of black America's most influential men, Elijah Muhammed and Malcolm X, is the topic of "Tony Brown's Journal" at 3:30 p.m., Sunday, June 6, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

By showing scenes from the award-winning play "When the Chickens Came Home to Roost," together with information compiled from an investigation into Malcolm X's death, "Tony Brown's Journal" recreates the battle of the two. It is the story of a friendship that was ultimately destroyed.

The sequence of events that led to the death of Malcolm X is told by one of the most famous names in black history, Martin Luther King Jr.

23- CARD OF THANKS

CARD OF THANKS
This is for the complete staff of Hancock General Hospital:

I just spent 11 days in the hospital and I would like to say to the people at the hospital and the doctors and nurses and everyone else "Thanks a Thousand Times" for the excellent care I received.

You hear so many people around the county talk of the hospital as a first aid station, but they just don't know how wrong they are.

They do an excellent job for the people who are admitted to the hospital. It is unfortunate that they don't have the equipment to do everything necessary.

But whose fault is that? I think the county and city officials of Hancock County, because we could have the best hospital on the Gulf Coast if some people would just give a little.

We also have the qualified medical staff to take care of our people and our people are grateful. It is only we and the hospital.

I would like to say thanks to the people of Hancock County for their support of the Hancock General Hospital. I would also like to thank the staff of the Hancock General Hospital.

Department for the assistance they gave the Mobile Medic in getting me to the hospital on May 15, and a special thanks to Veronica Hallabaugh of the Waveland Police Department and also Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Varnell for their concern and assistance.

Thanks to everyone.

We received a call late Tuesday from one of our subscribers expressing her feelings that she had been denied her Constitutional Rights in not being able to cast her ballots for the candidates of her choice.

In conversations with others over the years we have received the same feelings since an elector has to vote party lines during a primary election. This is something which really goes back a long way in Mississippi.

The State Legislature recently enacted an open primary law for Mississippi, but, it is not in effect as yet because, as we understand it, it must be reviewed by the U.S. Attorney General.

It is our understanding that Mississippi is the only state in the nation unable to make election changes without approval by the U.S. Attorney General, and everyone knows how slow they are to move at times.

We also know too that it takes time for things to change in Mississippi as it wasn't many years ago a person registered only one way and that was as a Democrat.

Maybe the next election will be an open primary in our state. This lady who called apparently had wanted to vote for a candidate on the Democratic ballot in one race and a Republican candidate in another race which is a no-no until federal approval comes through.

It seems to have been ladies day at the polls in District Three yesterday as the feminine side were the top runners over eight gentlemen.

We know several ladies have run for judge in Hancock County in recent years, but none have been winners.

Since the run-off will be between two ladies, Hancock County will have its first lady judge, maybe for the first time in history. We know in modern times we haven't had a lady judge.

We would like to commend the electors in District Three on the big turnout yesterday and hope they will do the same on Tuesday June 15 for the run-off.

Sunday, June 6 will mark the third annual Beachfront Festival for Bay St. Louis.

Activities are scheduled to get underway at 1 p.m. with live entertainment, arts and crafts, boat races, good food and many other interesting events.

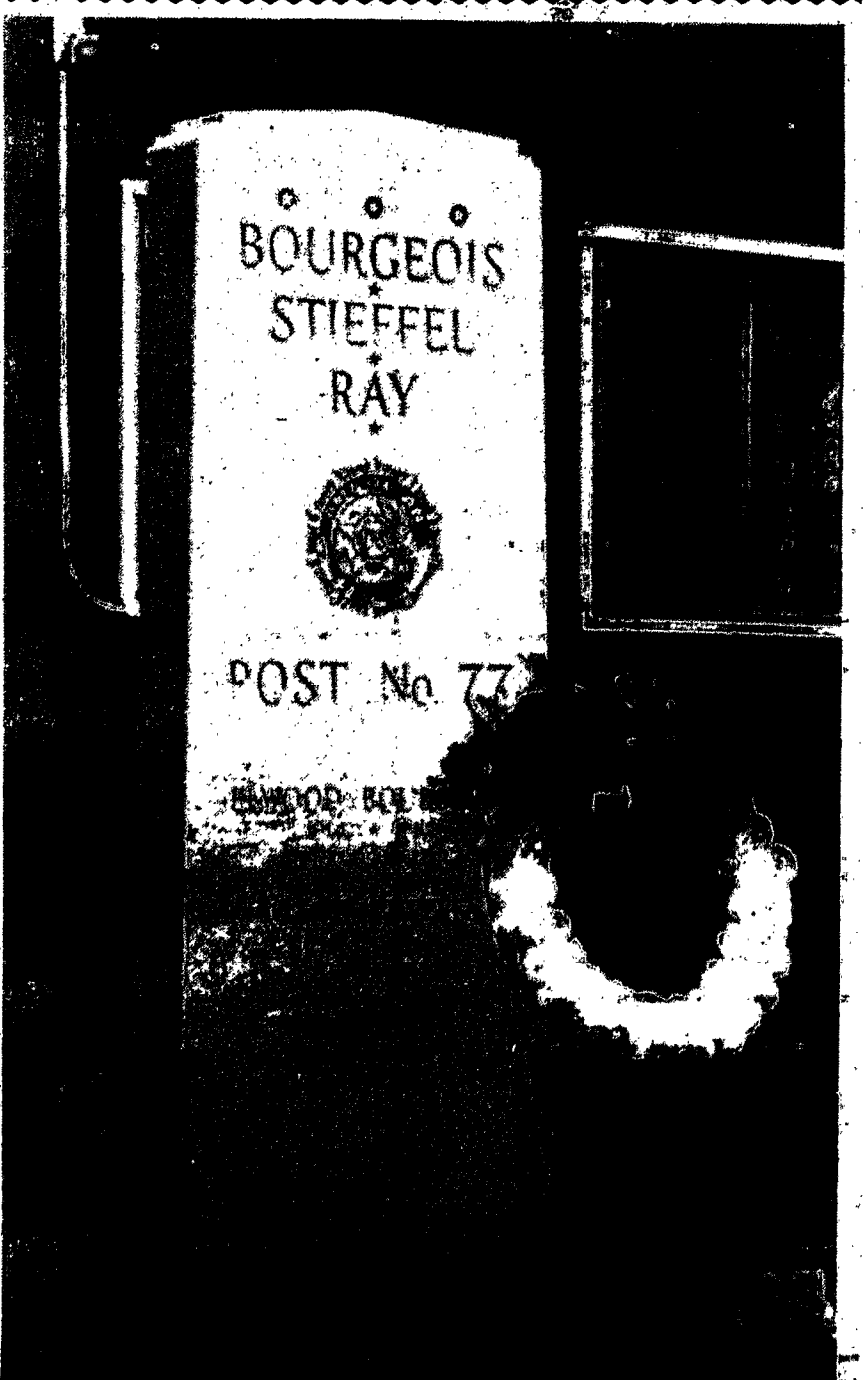

We know the festival has grown since it started three years ago, and are told this year's will be larger than ever.

Hope to see you at the Beachfront Festival.

Pony purchaser warns Caveat emptor let the buyer beware!

May 21, 1982

To The Editor,

I am writing this letter in hopes that others may learn from my unfortunate experience. I recently purchased a Welsh Pony, said to be two to three years old, with saddle and bridle for my children.

Two days later, I had a local veterinarian tell me that the pony is 18-20 years old, blinded with cataracts and a shetland to boot!

You can imagine the disappointment my children felt after having traveled their money for two years now. I have since contacted the seller, but she refused to refund their money. I hope in the near future to purchase a pony for my children that they can safely ride and hopefully from an honest person!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Vicki Theobald

Humane Society worker ousted after disagreement with president

5-24-82
The Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis, Ms.
c-o Editor

Dear Sir:

Since I am getting so many phone calls as to why I am no longer with the Bay-Waveland Humane Society, I feel I owe the public an explanation, in my own defense.

I don't feel guilty of any wrong; when the two Hardy sisters requested me to come to their home, I thought I could prevent them from doing anything rash, in their emotional state.

I tried unsuccessfully to have the president of the society postpone the forced eviction of the animals until the bedridden sister recuperated over her accident with the broken hip and give her a chance to express her wishes.

She was so concerned over losing her pet dog and cat; they were in the group with all the others.

I simply could not go along with the forced taking away of animals that had so much love and attention and had been so long with their owners.

The humane element was ruthlessly ignored. I guess I was too weak to resist the cries and pleadings of the crippled bedridden sister. I just put myself in her place. If such feelings are wrong then I plead guilty.

Respectfully,
Eleanor McFie

Not all parents of private school students resent paying public school taxes

Sea Coast Echo
To The Editor:

Sir,
According to R.G. Puckett, executive director Americans United for Separation of State and Church, Silver Springs, Md., Columnist James Kilpatrick leaped blithely over the first amendment wall of separation between church and state in the Daily Herald May 5, 1982.

Puckett blasted Kilpatrick for favoring tuition tax credit for private and parochial schools.

I see Puckett as one of a long line who has for too long argued that if it doesn't benefit me it is wrong.

Due to the present financial pressure on the public school system, consider the calamity if another 10 percent non-public school students - would suddenly drop in on the public school system?

I just bet these people who are using the First Amendment for a crutch would be the first to yell, preposterous.

Don't forget the parents of these non-public school students are already paying their legal share of taxes to operate the public system.

While reading Puckett's letter, I could only think of a similarity - in reverse - in our Bay-Waveland school system.

Recently we had a group of worthy public school students who had won the honor to participate in the Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington, D.C.

The public school district being financially unable to sponsor this trip, left hand members one alternative - solicit funds.

Although I spent some time hospitalized during the fund raising and probably missed out on something, it was not until the Board of Trustees authorized a $1,500 district contribution did I hear - UNFAIR!

The March 9 issue of the Daily Herald told us that Superintendent J.D. McCullough apparently reluctant to issue the contribution, apologized to the many non-public school parents - roughly 30 percent of the district - many who were called upon by the hand for financial support, saying that those people already had their share of school problems of their own.

What he failed to tell all these people was that for many years these people now they have also been paying their legal share of public school taxes from which he and his wife each get a more than generous check of $100,000.

They also have been paying to pay $100,000 a year to the public school system with no benefit to the public school system.

In August, 1981, the district stepped into a public school system which was in a financial crisis and was earlier.

I am sure that every taxpayer will be glad to know that the legal method being used since October 1981 has changed that $100 monthly to a low of $32.80 and a high of only $52.

Some time the abused do win by being on the legal side.

I am sure I can safely say that those non-public school parents who donated, did so with only one thought.

They felt more than reimbursed just knowing that not only their neighborhood children - children of their neighbors, friends, and relatives, were so worthy.

They were also grateful to be a part of what this once-in-a-lifetime accomplishment meant to these students.

Thanks,
Earl Lizana

Medical expense benefit for Willie Johnson termed a success

Sea Coast Echo
To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Many people helped make the benefit for Willie Johnson a success.

In our busy day to day lives we tend to forget sometimes just how warm, loving, caring and generous our fellow citizens really are.

Then along comes someone like seven-year-old Willie Johnson and without hesitation our people begin to work and give with only one thought in mind, showing our love for someone in need.

We have, without a doubt, the finest people here in our area, that you can find anywhere in these United States, a fact of which we are very proud.

An account has been opened at the Hancock Bank, Hwy. 90. Anyone wishing to make a contribution may do so by making a check out, for deposit, to Willie Johnson Medical Expenses and taking it or sending it to the Hancock Bank, Hwy. 90, Bay St. Louis.

Open Letter to the Board of Trustees of Hancock General Hospital

Gentlemen:

As a member and first president of the original Board of Trustees of Hancock General Hospital, before and after construction of the present hospital, I am interested in and very much concerned with continued operation and improvement of our hospital facilities.

I recall several years of campaigning to secure an election to approve the bonds for hospital construction. I also remember my unsuccessful attempt to change the location of the present hospital. However, I was pleased to get the hospital at any location.

true. I am proud to note, more doctors are available with increased use of our hospital.

Based solely upon my observation, I believe the County should get out of the hospital business. 100 percent. Therefore, I suggest the firm now under contract to operate the hospital should have the opportunity to secure a new location and construct a new hospital raise the funds from their own resources. I have not mentioned this to anyone, but I feel confident this could be accomplished. Of course, they would need support from the public and all governmental agencies concerned.

I realize many suggestions have been made, so let's get open advice in our effort to improve our hospital facilities before we proceed further.

In closing, please be assured when the Trustees and the Board of Supervisors have made a final decision in this matter, you will have my support all the way.

Sincerely,

DIGGING A MARINA—A dragline, right, and backhoe, left, are busy digging a marina which will be surrounded by Bay Cove Marina Village, a townhouse development planned for construction at the mouth of the Jourdan River just north of Bay St. Louis. A truck, left, being loaded by the backhoe transports dirt from the hole to neighboring property just south of Engman Avenue for use as fill on land slated for lot development outside the townhouse development. Don Hessemer, co-developer of Bay Cove Marina Village Townhouse and Homestead Development, noted the United States Army Corps of Engineers approved a construction permit for the marina project slightly more than one month ago. Some 15 acres of land are being dug out. The marina will be eight feet deep when completed, Hessemer speculated the hole will be completed by Thanksgiving and boats can begin using the facility at the end of this year. News media is instrument of learning and communication

Bay St. Louis, Miss.

Dear Editor:

My family is a client of yours, as we read every edition of your fine newspaper. We all hold the news media as an instrument of learning and communication.

I witnessed an action at a home on one of our city streets in our fair city that I would like to ask some questions about.

Who and What is our local Humane Society? How far does their authority go and does it include human rights?

How well organized are they? At this home on one of our city streets, one of their officers, shaking her finger, clinching her fist and heard her raising her voice at several people who were present at this action.

Was this necessary?
Was this the business at hand?

Blood Bank chairman issues appeal for blood drawing donors

June 2, 1982
Editor
Sea Coast Echo

The American Red Cross Mobile Unit will be at the American Legion Home, Post 139, Bay St. Louis, on Wednesday, June 9 from 2 to 8 p.m. Our quota for this blood drawing is 125 units.

As usual, our present blood supply is very low, since the previous drawing did not produce even the usual amount. We know you are aware of the im-

I saw the chief of police there and I saw the animal warden there in their line of duty.

Where did their line of duty come from and why? All of the so-called complaints that the Humane Society was supposed to have had, were they logged and authenticated, recorded?

Was the affidavit legal and current at the time? No one at the scene and involved asked to see the warrant.

I did not see a city or county health officer there.

I did not see a doctor or a nurse on behalf of the action that was being taken there.

If this action was against a health hazard, how well did the Humane Society, the police and, oh yes, the news media investigate this condition before they took action?

Inside this house were two very old Senior Citizens, one bedridden, both very much frightened and over-wrought.

It did not seem as though their immediate health was of any concern.

By the way, there was no reporter or representative of the Sea Coast Echo there, just WLOX, Ch. 13, with their cameras.

I viewed the news on Ch. 13 that night and I considered it from what I saw as biased with only one point of view.

Oh yes, the article on the front page of The Echo by Mr. Perez, did he write this without checking it out; did he investigate what he wrote?

Oh yes, and how does all this tie in with all the delay and politics involved with not having an animal shelter, and if we had one would all of this have happened?

I could go on but is there any point? Don Everett Sr.

P.S. Why was not the action taken on one day? Why did it take place on two different days of the week? Why prolong such an important issue as a health hazard?

Nicholson Avenue homeowner lauds fast action by Waveland PD

May 12, 1982
Mayor John Longo
City of Waveland

Dear Mayor Longo:

This letter is to advise you of the excellent performance of the Waveland police department in the handling of a recent break in at my Nicholson Avenue home.

The police were contacted by neighbors and given a description of the automobile seen leaving the premises. Within five minutes the police had the burglars in custody and had recovered the stolen property.

The town of Waveland should be proud to have such an excellent police department.

Very truly yours,

USDA cites Poplarville stockyard operation

Smith Brothers Stockyards, Inc. in Poplarville, under the management of Joe Mack Smith, its president, has been charged with being involved in the sale of livestock, having shorted of 30,000 pounds of livestock, and still owing $2,314 to livestock consignors as of March 3, a U.S. Department of Agriculture official reports.

E. H. (Bill) Jones, Packers and Stockyards administrator, said the department has a right to a hearing on the administrative complaints and charges are proven, they would be placed under a cease and desist order. Their registrations could also be suspended and they could be ordered to pay a civil penalty.

Market agencies are required to maintain a solvent financial position, properly maintain a custodial account for proceeds belonging to consignors, and to promptly pay the proceeds due to consignors. On June 3, 1982, the U.S. Department of Agriculture announced that it had received complaints from livestock consignors that Smith Brothers Stockyards had shorted them of 30,000 pounds of livestock and still owed them $2,314.

SMALL GARDEN

Just because you don't have a one-half acre garden spot doesn't mean you can't enjoy fresh garden vegetables this spring and summer. If you have only a small area, consider high yielding vegetables.

Bush snap beans, bush lima beans, southern peas, leafy greens, tomatoes and bell peppers are a few examples of high yielding plants that give a surprising amount of good eating without taking up a lot of garden space.

You may find that it takes less space than you think for your family's garden needs. For example, just six tomato plants provide enough fresh tomatoes for a family of four.

Benvenuti offers Memorial Day prayer for bloodless Falklands settlement

EDITOR'S NOTE: Bay St. Louis attorney and city judge Joseph Benvenuti delivered the Memorial Day address Monday at American Legion Post No. 139 at the gravesite of Clement R. Bontemps, Bay St. Louis native killed in World War I.

We are gathered here this morning, May 31, 1982, designated as Memorial Day, to pay tribute to the millions of men and women who have demonstrated their loyalty, their patriotism and their devotion to duty during times of national crisis.

Even though much notice and publicity have been given by the news media of the impending services at the gravesite of our American Legion namesake, Clement R. Bontemps, the few in numbers present here to participate in this most important program does not lessen our sincerity and deep rooted feeling for those who responded when called upon to serve their country.

It is those men and women that we salute today and recall the sacrifices and services and the American life for which they fought and died.

Today, we tell the history of our country's life, recount the lofty deeds of vanished years, the toll and sufferings, the defeats and victories of heroic men, of men who made our nation great and free.

It is those veterans gone by the wayside that we salute today who paid the supreme sacrifice of death for high ideals and it is to them that we pay respectful homage in the most patriotic way possible, and that is by public acknowledgement of gratitude for the most commendable services rendered.

Patriotism, defined in its simplest form, is a devotion to the welfare of one's country. All too often, men with a disposition to shallow thinking, regard flag waving as empty of meaning and supercilious.

Frequently, we are reluctant to give the respect that the display of our flag, which is the same symbol of our American freedom. We must never forget that the flag, for which our country's heroes fought, for which they died, is the symbol of all we hope to be.

It is the emblem of equal rights as demonstrated by our participation in international strife and conflicts since world one to the present time.

It means that this continent has been dedicated to freedom and that more effort has been made by the United States towards achieving this goal than any other nation in the world.

It means that the ballot box is the source of our democracy and the origin of authority must not be poisoned by unprincipled selfish motives.

It means universal education, light for every mind, knowledge for every child and that the school house is the fortress of liberty and that every citizen of our country, native or naturalized, must be protected at home in every state, abroad in every land, and on every sea.

That all distinctions based on birth or blood have perished from our law and that our government shall stand between labor and capital, the weak and strong, the individual and the corporation, between want and wealth, and guarantee simple and equal justice to each and all.

It means that there shall be a legal remedy for every wrong. That governments service their just powers from the consent of the governed and that responsibility goes hand in hand with freedom and that it is the duty of every citizen to bear his share of the public burden.

The flag, the colors, the stars and stripes, is the emblem of a Supreme Will, of a nation's power.

Beneath its folds, the weakest must be protected, the strongest must obey. It shields and covers alike the loftiest mansion and the rudest hut.

There is no language to express the debt we owe, the love we bear to all those who died for our country. Words are but barren sounds and yet as we stand beside their graves and in the hush and silence feel what speech has never told.

They fought gallantly for the principles that the man who acts best his part, who loves his friends the best, is most willing to help others.

He is truest to the obligation, who has the best heart, the most feeling, the deepest sympathies, and who freely gives to others the rights that he claims for himself. He is the best man and for these principles they joined the ranks of untold patriots reaching out to protect the land of the free and the home of the brave.

At the present moment, all that has been said of the glorious achievements of our forefathers and deceased and crippled veterans who gave of their blood and lives and stamina for the preservation of these principles is threatened by a conflict on our side of the world which has all the earmarks of an international war.

Let us hope and pray that this conflict will be resolved with the minimum amount of bloodshed and that the leaders of the countries involved will recognize the advantage of an honorable negotiated settlement of peace that will benefit the individual human being who is called upon to do battle and risk his life for a cause that should be settled with words of understanding and not guns of killing.

Student, teacher in joint recital

Another woman who identified herself as a Waveland property owner said a shelter is a necessity for the city and she would not object to a one mill property tax increase to support the facility.

Jerry Comiskey of Waveland and a former member of the County Animal Control Commission suggested a fee be charged to individuals when they retrieve their strays at the shelter.

LeBourgeois also suggested an animal privilege tax be charged to local animal owners to help finance the facility.

Longo noted the cost for shelter operation would be shared by the cities and county, and any municipality not contributing to the facility would be charged a fee for each animal.

Don LeBourgeois, Bay-Waveland business vice president and animal control commission member, stated the cities and county each should pay $200 for a three-year contract along with other individual and corporate contributions.

LeBourgeois now is an interested party in an interest-bearing account.

Bay-Waveland business vice president said about $100,000 was for foundation fill for a new animal shelter site on the corner of the Bay St. Louis and Garrison Drive.

LeBourgeois, an alderman, said the shelter would be located in the ward and stated, "There is no doubt in my mind that we need a shelter."

He said the concrete building will be surrounded by a fence and anyone attempting to break into the facility will be arrested.

In other business at the 7:30 p.m. board meeting at City Hall, the aldermen:

—Accepted a lone bid submitted by Monroe Jordan contingent upon verification of the apparent $500 proposal for clearing bamboo from a Jeff Davis Avenue lot owned by Melvin Laurent. The board members could not determine if Jordan's bid is $1,500 or $500;

—Accepted a correction to the city's 1981 audit report submitted by Moore and Powell Certified Public Accountants of Bay St. Louis which balances a financial statement for the Middletown Housing and Rehabilitation Program;

—Denied a request by Michael Cuevas to place a trailer behind the Imperial Lounge on US-90;

—Authorized $35 donations each to Joey Moran of the Catahoula Community who will represent the state in National Vocational and Industrial Clubs of America competition in Kentucky, St. Stanislaus High School in Bay St. Louis for a football program advertisement, and St. Clare School for its annual fair;

—Authorized releasing the city's safekeeping account at Merchants Bank and Trust Co. which will mature June 10;

—Authorized removing a property tax assessment from home owned by Leon J. Dupont. Barbara Rappold, city clerk and an alderman, reported the home has not yet been completed;

—Authorized charging $200 for back taxes on a lot at the corner of Amar and Olivari Streets purchased in a tax sale by Lou Sippi, Inc.;

—Authorized charging some $104 for back taxes on three lots on Amar Street also purchased in a tax sale by Lou Sippi;

—Authorized Ladd Construction Co. of Waveland to construct eight six-foot by 10-foot storage sheds behind homes included in the Middletown program. Also authorized Ladd to tear down one shed and paint another in the program area at a cost of $50 each;

—Authorized Longo to sign notice of contract awards and sign contracts for a City Library renovation and expansion project, and expansion of city water lines and construction of a water tower which will primarily serve the US-90 business district;

—Authorized the re-dedication of Fire Station No. Two effective June 12 as Central Station in honor of the late Fire Chief Kenneth Fayard;

—Received notice from the State Department of Natural Resources Bureau of Pollution Control praising the city sewage treatment plant;

—Reviewed plans for a 34-unit apartment complex to be constructed on Old Gainville Road.

Bay-Kilm-Waveland boxer Willie Thompson, 19, earned his first ring victory Saturday at boxing competition conducted in Mobile, Ala.

Thompson only recently joined the B-K-W and has had little boxing experience in his 159 pound open division. However, Saturday Thompson devastated his opponent from Saucier, knocking him to the canvas three times in the first two rounds before the fight was stopped.

Also Saturday, Tony

Guererro, 11, of Waveland, fighting in the 80 pound junior division, lost his bout by a close decision to Keith Switzer of the Gulfport Boxing Club.

Cory Johnston, also of the B-K-W, was defeated by an opponent from the Roy Jones Boxing Club in Alabama.

Brian Watts, of the B-K-W, battled in an exhibition match at the Mobile competition.

The matches marked the end of the B-K-W boxing for the season. The youths will be in training for the remainder of the summer.

Pearl River College to host basketball event

Pearl River Junior College will again host the Louisiana and Mississippi Senior and Junior Southern AAU Olympics Girls Basketball Tournament.

Billy Holmes, PRC's head basketball coach, said the 18 and under Division of the AAU is set for June 10-13. The 15 and under Division is scheduled for the next week, June 17-20.

According to Holmes several of the top senior college players of the nation will be on hand for the event, including players from Ole Miss, Mississippi College, University of New Orleans, Belhaven, LSU and Louisiana Tech.

Charles Domino of New Orleans, the Girls' Junior Olympic chairman, was coach of the Domino sponsored team which won the tournament here last year and eventually the National Junior AAU Championship.

Several local teams are also planning to participate.

Flotilla observing safe boating week

Pass Christian Flotilla 35, United States Coast Guard Auxiliary, advises that national safe-boating week will be observed June 6-12.

Flotilla 35 will offer courtesy examination booths on the mornings of June 5, 6, 11 and 12 at the small craft harbors in Gulfport, Long Beach and Pass Christian as well as at Bayview Marina in Henderson Point.

In addition to the booths, there will be search and rescue patrol boats on display at Gulfport, Long Beach and Pass Christian.

Endangered species may include humans

With some experts claiming that a million species—or about a quarter of these on earth—will become extinct during the next 30 years, the U.S. Endangered Species Act, up for Congressional renewal this year, has taken on a new significance for many Americans.

Conservationists contend that we're losing too many species too fast, and most agree that much more is at stake than the fate of the Tecopa pupfish—the first species officially stricken from the Endangered Species List by a finding that it is extinct.

Nevertheless, the upcoming debate over the ESA will be a "very tough battle" for the act's proponents, says the current issue of National Wildlife magazine, the bi-monthly publication of the National Wildlife Federation.

To win, conservationists will have to dispel some popular misconceptions about the law itself and buck the momentum behind the Reagan administration, which tried to cut the Endangered Species Program budget by some 43 percent last year.

For one thing, says the magazine, the public needs to understand that the Act never sought to bring a halt to development. It instead established a consultation process to come up with alternatives that wouldn't affect threatened species.

Statistics bear out the contention that the law doesn't stymie development, says National Wildlife. In close to 1,000 consultations between the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and federal agencies implementing the ESA since 1979, only 150 proposed projects posed a danger to an endangered species or its habitat. In the "great majority" of cases, says the magazine, "reasonable alternatives" were developed.

For example, the magazine points out, mineral exploration in Montana's Cabinet Mountains was allowed to proceed with only slight modifications to protect grizzly bears.

Other parts of the law haven't worked so well, according to National Wildlife, and that's where the legislation need strengthening.

One of the most criticized aspects of the law is the procedure for adding endangered or threatened species to the official list.

When this part of the act was amended in 1978, the entire process was simply made more cumbersome and inefficient, conservationists say.

The result—a mere 15 species were added to the list the year after the amendment took effect, compared to the 65 species listed the year before.

Now, under the Reagan Administration, says National Wildlife, the listing process has "ground to a complete halt." Not a single species has been proposed for the threatened or endangered list since Reagan took office, though some species that were proposed under President Carter have been added to the list.

Working against a more efficient listing procedure, says the magazine, is a slashed budget. A cut of nearly half in the current federal budget for listing activities reflects "not only the Administration's cost-cutting campaign, but also a downgraded emphasis on listing," says the magazine report.

In addition, the Administration proposed a 20 percent reduction in funding for programs that help restore a species' numbers, the recovery programs that have helped saving the whooping crane and the California condor, among others.

The Endangered Species Act is being attacked on several fronts, many of which involve critical provisions of the law. Conservationists will have to remind the American people, says National Wildlife, that without the security blanket of the Endangered Species Act, many more species would have preceded the tiny Tecopa pupfish down the road to extinction.

The more that road is travelled—the more the "web of life" is broken by drop-outs—the closer man himself comes to being endangered.

River coach recruiting for baseball strength

In an effort to strengthen his improving Pearl River Junior College baseball program, the Wildcats' head coach Ned Eades has added four new recruits during his current search for young talent.

Eades, who headed only one year to take an 8-18 team in 1981 and turned it into a booming 28-11 program in 1982, has already received a firm commitment from four high school players.

Included among the new recruits are: Richard (Bug) Ellis from Petal High School; Kelly Jones from Forrest County Agricultural High School; Mark Lowery from North Forrest High School;

In addition to these players, Eades has also talked to several players from Florida, two from New Orleans, La.

and one from Oak Grove High School.

As of yet, none of these players have made a firm commitment, but Eades, who is losing only five members from his 1982 squad, says he's optimistic that he'll be able to strengthen his team with a couple of these players.

At the end of the 1982 season, Eades was faced with the problem of finding two starting outfielders and a starting third baseman. Centerfielder Val Overstreet, who was the team's leading hitter with a .381 average this past season, leftfielder Todd Bodnar and third baseman Matt Jones are the only graduating starters Eades will have to replace.

Eades will also lose the services of utility man Gary Russ and pitcher Steve Daniels.

Russ joined the other three players in graduation ceremonies, while Daniels has a possible job lined up and will most likely not be back next year.

In signing the three new district players, Eades has apparently found an immediate solution to some of his problems.

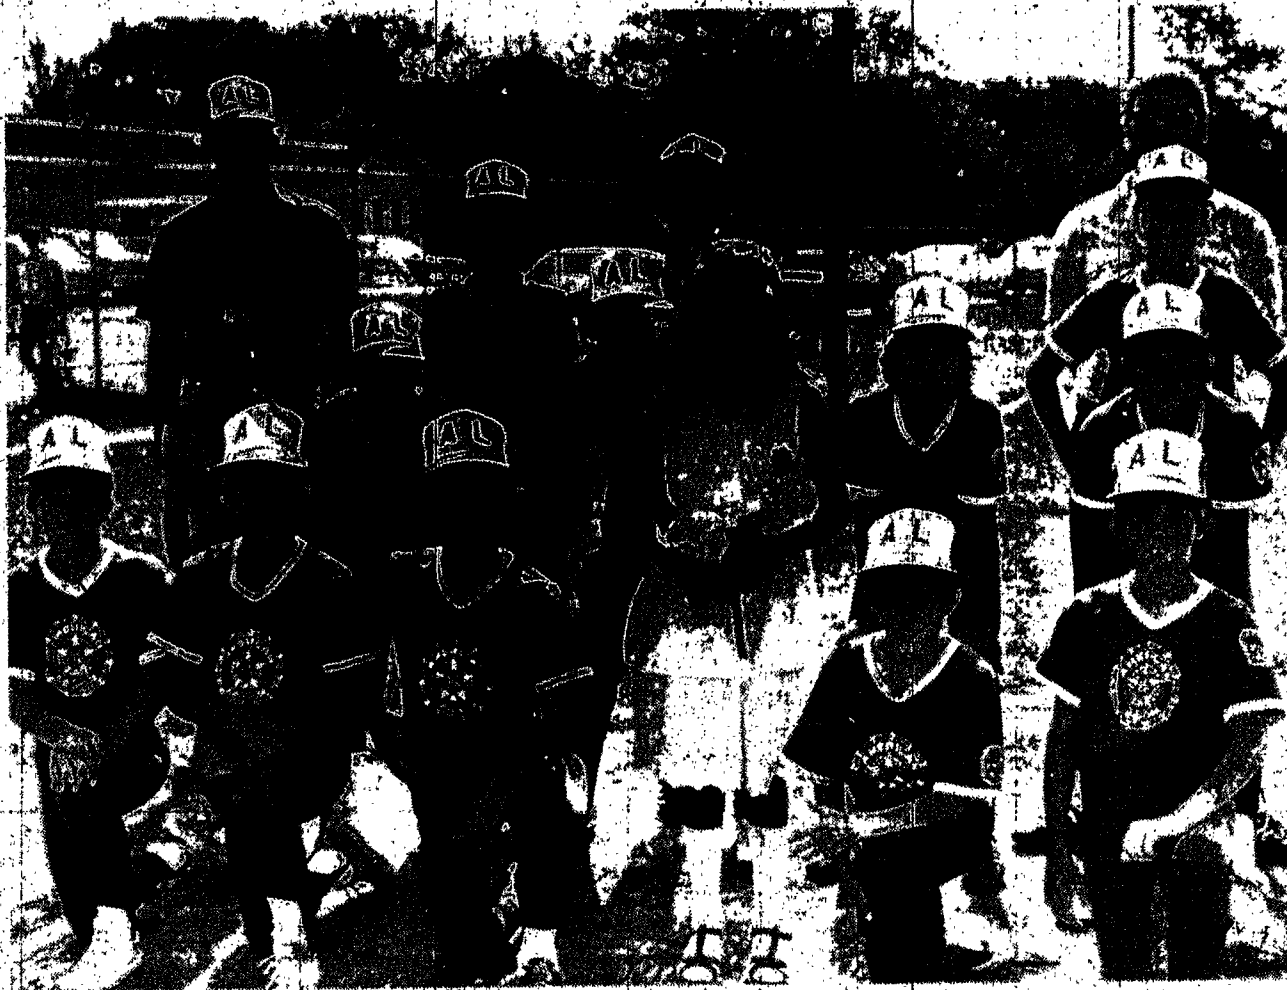

Ellis, an All-State performer at Petal, recorded a 9-2 record during his senior year and played in the outfield when he wasn't on the mound. The two-time All-Southern Athletic Conference player was Petal's most valuable player last year, led the team in hitting and was named to the Hattiesburg All-Area Team.

Kelly Jones, a three-year All-Apahe Conference catcher at Forrest County, was also his team's most valuable player last year and was a member of the Hattiesburg All-Area Team for the past two years.

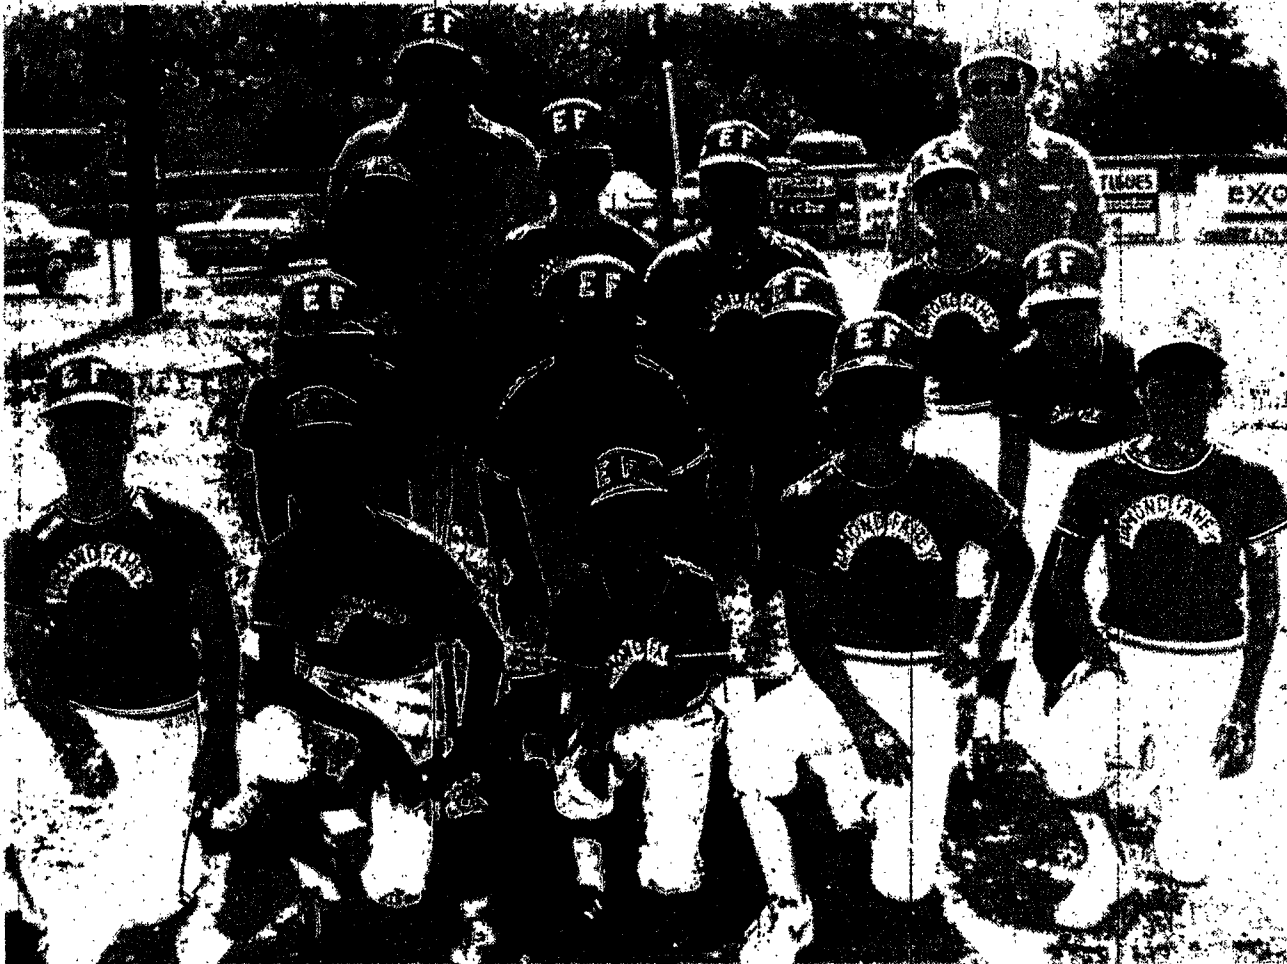

Lowery, a three-time All-Pine Belt Conference catcher and third baseman at North Forrest, led his team to the South State Playoffs and, he too, was a member on the Hattiesburg All-Area Team.

Sciarabba is an excellent pitcher with speed at 90 mph. "I feel that with the addition of these players, we'll be able to stay on the right track," said Eades.

Ole Miss slated two summer baseball camps

The solid smack of baseballs hitting gloves and bats, along with plenty of sunshine and some hard work, will be the rule of the day during two sessions of Ole Miss Baseball Camp June 6-11 and June 13-18.

According to Ole Miss Baseball Coach Jake Gibbs, a newly-instituted age division will allow instruction to be adjusted to meet the specific abilities of campers. Boys ages 10 through 13 will attend camp the first week, and boys ages 14 through 1983 high school seniors will attend the second. Campers living in close proximity to the Oxford campus can take advantage of the "day camper" concept, which allows them to receive instruction at a reduced fee of $80. Resident campers receiving housing and meals will pay a fee of $150. In addition to calisthenics and conditioning skills, all campers will receive instruction in the fundamentals of the sport through individual and group instruction. Campers will practice techniques of throwing, hitting, running and fielding, and will study theory, rules, play situations, game films, leadership and sportsmanship. A few openings are still available for the camps. Further information is available through the Division of Continuing Education, The University of Mississippi, University, MS 38677 (telephone 601-232-7282).

LYONS IN LAS VEGAS—Heavyweight Champion Larry Holmes, left, clowns with Biloxi fight promoter Billy Lyons during a recent workout at the champ's camp in Las Vegas. Lyons is sponsoring the live, closed circuit television presentation of the Holmes-Gerry Cooney championship bout June 11 at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum in Biloxi. Tickets for the television showing of the fight on the Coast are available at the Coliseum box office and Lolacano's Health Club in Bay St. Louis.

Rebound instinct makes Holmes a dangerous foe

The true test of a champion is not just the talent he possesses but also the inborn ability to rebound from sudden shocks. It is the natural instinct of a champion to get off the floor and achieve victory.

Larry Holmes, World Boxing Council heavyweight champion, recognized by most as the best heavyweight in the world, has proved that he can face "imminent danger" and beat it.

He did it against Mike Weaver, the current World Boxing Association champion, whom he knocked out in the 12th round in Madison Square Garden on June 22, 1979.

Inadvertently, or otherwise a thumb had gotten into the champion's eye. Others would have looked for a way out. Holmes only fought harder.

On September 28, 1979, Ernie Shavers, probably the hardest single-blow puncher in the ring today, felled Holmes with as wicked a right hand ever thrown in the seventh round. Miraculously, Holmes got up and demolished Shavers in the 11th round.

On November 6, 1981, Renaldo Snipes stunned Holmes with a right hand in the seventh round. That he recovered again is a tribute to a proud man. He stopped Snipes in the 11th.

Holmes was born November 3, 1949, in the small town of Cuthbert, Ga., about 5 miles from the Alabama border. He is one of 11 children. His parents separated when he was in the fourth grade. He was raised by his mother, who moved to Biloxi in 1964.

Larry participated in all sports in high school, and excelled in basketball. From 1970 to 1972, he fought 22 amateur bouts, winning 19 and losing three. One of his losses was a controversial decision with Duane Bobick, which enabled Bobick to go to the Olympics in Munich.

In his amateur career, Holmes won the New Jersey AAU Championship and the Eastern Olympic title. He turned pro in 1973. He learned his trade slowly, working as a sparring partner for Joe Frazier and Muhammad Ali.

Larry loves kids and is always ready to give his time for worthy causes involving youngsters. He was the recipient of the YMCA's "Youth Incentive Award" as well as the Eastern Area Jaycees "Distinguished Award" and was recently named one of the "10 outstanding Young Men in America" by the United States Jaycees. His boxing honors, including "Fighter of the Year," are countless.

Holmes will put his 39-0 undefeated string and his World Boxing Council Heavyweight title up against the number-one-rated Gerry Cooney in Las Vegas on June 11.

Boxing fans along the Gulf Coast will be able to see Cooney and Holmes battle it out for the title live from Las Vegas on closed circuit television in the Gulf Coast Coliseum, Biloxi, June 11 beginning at 8 p.m.

Tickets are available at the Coliseum Box Office; Sam Edgewater, Lolacano's Health Club, Bay St. Louis; Medhurst's Bank, Long Beach, Okla.; Gulfport Sports Center, Gulfport; Sports Street, Ocean Springs; and David's Music, Pascagoula.

College soccer camps open to youth 7-15

Belhaven College is sponsoring two soccer camps this summer. The first, for boys and girls ages 14-18, is scheduled for July 5-9; the second, for boys and girls ages 7-13, is scheduled for July 26-30.

The camp will be staffed by members of the championship Belhaven College soccer team. Camp director is Bill Lytton, Belhaven soccer coach.

Lytton has had 19 years of coaching and playing experience and holds the USSF "A" license. He will be assisted by Charlie Long, former member of the Wheaton College soccer team.

The camps will be held on the Belhaven College campus in Jackson. Players will be staying in Wells Dormitory and will be eating in the H.C. Bailey Student Center.

In addition to a full size soccer field, a number of other facilities are available. These include a kick board, a gymnasium for indoor soccer, tennis courts and an indoor swimming pool.

A special feature of the soccer camps is a video-cassette recorder and camera. Each camper will have the opportunity to be taped while at camp. This will allow the instructors to critique his or her performance through this medium.

Cost of the camp is $140 per camper which includes meals, lodging, t-shirt, insurance and a top quality soccer ball.

Discounts are offered to campers who attend in groups of 10 or more from the same team and to returning campers who bring two others with them.

For more information or to receive an application, contact Bill Lytton, Belhaven College Soccer Camps, Belhaven College, Jackson, Mississippi, 39202; phone (601) 969-7400.

PREPARING FOR ACTION is No. one heavyweight contender, Gerry Cooney. Trainer Victor Valle carefully wraps Cooney's valuable hands. Cooney fights World Champion Larry Holmes for the heavyweight title at Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas, Nevada on June 11. The bout is entitled, "The Pride and the Glory." Tickets for a live, closed circuit television presentation of the event at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum in Biloxi are available at Lolacano's Health Club in Bay St. Louis.

Avoid These Blinding Blunders

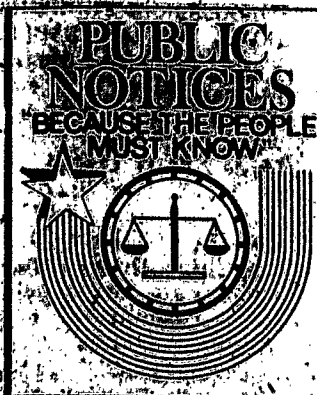

More and more players are taking to the tennis, squash and racquetball courts and the numbers of eye injuries in these sports have skyrocketed, more than doubling in five years. Over 35,000 eye injuries are treated in hospital emergency departments each year, nearly 75 percent related to these 10 sports—baseball, racquet sports, basketball, football, BB guns, bicycling, volleyball, soccer, hockey and other ball sports.

quiet-struck balls can travel at speeds that exceed 100 miles per hour? The smaller the ball, the greater the risk of injury to unprotected eyes.

The National Society to Prevent Blindness says that more than 90 percent of the time proper eye safety practices and appropriate eye protection can prevent injuries. Racquet sports players can wear sports eyeguards available at racquet club pro shops and sporting goods stores. Or they can use industrial quality safety glasses, available from opticians or safety equipment suppliers.

For hockey players there are helmets with face shields and for baseball players, helmets with facemasks.

ASSISTING McDONALDS—Presenting some $1,478 in donations for the Ronald McDonald House in New Orleans recently to Cindy Pechon of Diamondhead, manager of McDonalds Restaurant on US-90 in Waveland, are Byron Dixon, center, Bay Senior High School National Honor Society president, and John Necaise, society faculty advisor. The organization helped to raise the funds in a recent walk-a-thon. The house will provide shelter for parents of children undergoing treatment at New Orleans' hospitals for catastrophic diseases. A building on Canal Street will be renovated to house the facility. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

Bay High organization assists in fund raiser

More than 60 high school students clubs at Bay Senior High School, St. Stanislaus National Honor Society, Our Lady's Academy National Honor Society, and Pass Christian High School's Beta Club walked 10 miles recently from the west end of the Bay St. Louis highway bridge to the city limits of Long Beach to raise $1,478 for the Ronald McDonald House in New Orleans.

The walk-a-thon was organized and sponsored by Bay High's National Honor Society which consists of honor students chosen by the faculty.

The Honor Society also raised money to purchase cement tables and benches for Bay High's campus.

John Necaise, faculty advisor, states he is proud of the hard work, dedication, and cooperation shown by the group of young men and women during the 1981-82 school year.

"It has been an honor and a joy to work with this group," he added.

Byron Dixon is 1981-82 president, Scott Ballard is vice president, Tammy Johnston is secretary, and Scott Walters is treasurer of the society.

The house, located at 4403 Canal St., will provide a home-away-from-home for families of children with cancer and other serious illnesses.

"We're very excited and pleased by the acquisition of this property. We've worked long and hard to secure a suitable house that will be easily accessible to the local medical facilities," says Ken Gies, president of Children's Oncology Services of Louisiana.

"The house, which was purchased from the Hibernia Bank for $208,000, will undergo extensive renovations during the next six months. It presently contains 22 rooms and 13 baths with about 8,000 square feet of living space. Both the purchase price and the estimated renovation cost of $200,000 will be financed by the First Metropolitan Bank," Gies reports.

"Once renovated, the house will contain about 17 bedrooms and six baths. It will include a two-bedroom apartment for a live-in manager, a large double kitchen, dining area, large family room, play rooms for the children and laundry facilities," he noted.

The service group is a non-profit organization primarily consisting of parents of children who have cancer or who have died from the disease. One year ago COSLA began a drive to raise the funds needed to build a Ronald McDonald House in New Orleans.

"The group's efforts have been supported by the New Orleans area McDonald's restaurant and operators and licensees, who have pledged $175,000 to the project during the next five years, Gies says. "We were lucky to find a house so suitable for our needs. The cost of buying and renovating will be significantly cheaper than building from scratch," Gies notes.

Ronald McDonald Houses are in 28 cities throughout the world, including Toronto, Canada, and Sydney, Australia. Another 29 houses are scheduled to open in other cities by the end of 1982.

"The much-needed New Orleans Ronald McDonald House will be the only such house between Houston, Tx. and Birmingham, Ala.," Gies says.

Raymond Bergeron, an architect with the firm of Raymond C. Bergeron & Associates, and Gill Carvin of Carvin Construction Co., both of New Orleans, donated their services in project.

Gies adds, "Local McDonald's restaurants, the Ray Kroc Foundation, the New Orleans Saints, and many other organizations have already committed funds to the project, however, a great deal more is needed."

Tax deductible donations may be sent to the Ronald McDonald House, P.O. Box 53294, New Orleans, La. 70153.

Southern scholarship established

A scholarship fund in the name of Dr. Leslie D. Bard, director of the School for Children with Language Disorders, has been established.

The establishment of the fund was announced at the 20th anniversary of the founding of the SCLD by Dr. DuBard.

The idea for the fund was initiated by Mr. and Mrs. George Hurst. Over 100 families whose children have benefited from her work and 500 graduates of the Department of Speech and Hearing Sciences were contacted about making donations.

"We are indebted to her for what she has done for our family and we sought some way to honor her," said Mrs. Hurst.

The fund currently has nearly $700 in it and the funds are to reach $1000 in order to make it an annual scholarship from which the interest will be given to students for scholarships according to Dr. DuBard's wishes.

Persons interested in contributing should send their donations to the JSM Foundation and deliver it to the Bay St. Louis Southern Station, Box 6018, Hattiesburg, Miss. 39401.

MSU schedules orientations

The opportunity to become acquainted first-hand with life at Mississippi State University will be available to new students and their parents during five orientation sessions in June.

Sessions for freshmen and their parents will take place June 10-11, 16-18 and 26-27. Dates for transfer students and their parents are June 12-13 and 24-25.

Each session is open to all academic majors. However, orientation director Jimmy Abraham said freshmen and transfer students in architecture and forest resources are strongly encouraged to attend the June 16-18 session.

While on campus, students will pre-register for fall semester classes, have permanent ID cards made, meet other students, and become acquainted with members of the faculty, staff and administration.

The sessions are for parents, too, Abraham emphasized.

"While the parents' program is separate from the students', they will also have the opportunity to tour campus," he said.

For additional information on orientation, contact Abraham at Box NN, Mississippi State, Miss. 39762, telephone (1-800-222-1810, ext. 3076).
